F. Dryden became pastor of the church more than three, years ago, there was a debt of $4,000 upon the church more than three, years ago, there was a debt of $4,000 upon the church property, and the building of a new parsonage two years ago increased the debt to something over $5,000. By the most untiring work on the part of the pastor and people, the debt was reduced to $1,030, and on the 30th of December Mr. W. A. Wilson came forward with the $1,030 as a "thank offering." By this act of liberality on the part of Mr. Wilson the church was enabled to begin the new year free of debt, Rev. Mr. Dryden during the past three years of his pastorate has received into the church one hundred and thirty persons.

There was once a certain gas board composed entirely of Democrats, and I am sure there is no one who will say that it gave the city an ideal administration. Then there was a Republican Mayor, who tried to his duty honestly and fearlessly, and who was persecuted. There was another gas board that was nonpartisan that put in Mr. Dillon, a comparison that put in an untried man in his place. It was these things that created a revolution of feeling.

The report of the committee was received, and on motion of Mr. Buckman the nomination was made by seclamation. Dr. Ulrich being called for, in a graceful manner and a few well chosen words accepted the nomination.

Among other things, after expressing himself as profoundly grateful for the honor conferred upon him, he said that it had been intimated by the editor of a Democratic paper that the Mayor was merely a figurehead, and it made no difference who was elected. "This," said the doctor, "is to a certain extent true, but there is something even in a figure-head. When we meet a ship at sea the first we see of it is the top of its masts, then its spreading sails and hull, and finally when we approach nearer we discover the figurehead, and that figure-head always indicates the character of the crew and ship. In addition to chosing a president, a clerk and a city superintendent will have to be chosen to complete the organization. Mr. Edgar Hall and Prof. W. H. Anderson, the present incumbents, will probably have no opposition. They are both thoroughly competent men, well acquainted with the duties of their respective offices and popular with all who know them. The work of organization will probably occupy only a few minutes.

The County Commissioners.

The new Board of County Commissioners will meet at 10 a. m. to-day for the purpose of organizing. Owing to the fact that the Board is evenly divided, politically, there is great interest felt in the meeting, and a good deal of speculation is heard as to what the outcome will be. There have been deadlocks in the Board in the past, resulting in old officers holding over through an entire term, but this will not be the case today, inasmuch as the President is to be elected, and his term necessarily dies with the old Board. There are some rumors of prospective results which may cause general surprise except to those on the inside. A good deal of finesse has been exercised by persons working in certain interests, which looks as if there was something at stake. The County Commissioners

THE STEEL SCALE SIGNED.

The Wheeling Plant Will Start Up Soon The Wheeling steel plant at Benwood The Wheeling steel plant at Benwood has signed the Amalgamated scale of prices presented by the employes. It will be remembered that something over a year ago there was considerable controversy between the workers in this plant and the Riverside, also located in Benwood, over the fact that the steel. mill employes, organized under the Knights of Labor, had drawn up a scale Knights of Labor, had drawn up a scale different in some particulars from that of the Amalgamated Association. The main objection offered by the Amalgamated Association officials was the fact that the Knights of Labor scale ended in January instead of July. This objection the steel plant employes promised to remedy at the expiration of the contract, and they not only kept their word but presented the Amalgamated scale in its entirety to the company.

The Riverside plant has been closed down for some days past owing to a breakage, and it is not definitely known what course the workers will pursue in the premises, but it is only fair to presume that they will follow in the footsteps of the Wheeling steel works men and present the Amalgamated Association scale, as the employes of both concerns have always worked in harmony and unison.

The scale was not accepted at once by the company, and the works have been
